"The Geezer" Next Week.

"The Geezer" Next Week.

"The Geezer," which comes to the Casino next week, opening Monday night, is said to be an even superior production to that which has held the boards this week. The company is the same, and all the comedians, all the singers and the same pretty chorus is to disport liself behind the rootlights. The music is said to have a jingle and swing that will prove oppular, while there is considerable less dislogue than in the plays which have been seen this week, and Manager De Lange inclines to the belief that it will meet with even stronger expressions of approval than "Pousse Cafe" has been received. The costumes are said to pretty and bright and in keeping with the ideas of the management to get the best for the public.

TWO FREAKS OF NATURE.

A Corncob in the Shape of Human

Hand, and a Curious Turnip.

A letter was received yesterday at the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court of Appeals, enclosing a clipping from the New York Herald, showing a cut of a corncob, resembling minutely the human hand and wrist, having four perfectly formed fingers and a thumb.

This cob, however, is excelled in freak-ishness by the one which hangs in the office of the clerk of the Suprema Court. If possible, the formation of the hand in the latter case is even more fautless than in the former. The fingers have claws exactly like the talous of a hawk, and the contour of the wrist is almost perfect.

Another remarkable fresk of neture is Hand, and a Curious Turnip.

Another remarkable freak of nature is in the laboratory of the State Agricultural Department, corner Eleventh and Bank Streets. This is a turnly, weighing several pounds, in every particular a faithful minature of a man's body from the waist down. The turnip is at least a foot long, Liability of the R., F. & P. for Franchise Tax at Issue.

Attorney-General Anderson is now engaged in preparing a brief of his argument in the case of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railway Company versus Auditor Morton Marye, which was argued orally before Judge R. involves the right of the State to levy a franchise tax upon the company. Aboy 12 (3),600 is immediately involved, and also the right of the State to impose such a tax for the future.

The railway company claims exemption from this and other taxes by the terms of its charter, granted years ago. The attorney-general is confident that under the new Constitution, the railroad company is liable for this tax, and that it is not longer entitled to exemption.

OFFICERS MUST BE SWORN

Attorney-General William A. Anderson said yesterday in reply to State chairman Ellyson's inquiry concerning the coming State primary and as to whether election officers must take the oath provided for officers in the general election: My Dear Sir:

It is evident that the provisions of the section just quoted were intended "to secure the regularity and purity" of elections. One of the most important and essential of these requirements is that each judge and clerk conducting any such election shall, before he enters upon the performance of the duties imposed upon him, take and subscribe the oath therein set forth.

It is clear to my mind, therefore, that it is necessary and proper that every judge and clerk who shall conduct the primary election to be held on the 22d of August next should take and subscribe the oath set forth in said Sec. 118, Code of 1904.

"How about it, Mr. Umpire?" asked the scorer.

"In her base-ball suit she is counting the taillies in the villa at this time. It will be impossible to put her in the game to-day. A release will be sent her, and she will shortly be signed by the crack team from the lunatic diamond in Potersburg," broke in one of the players on the colonel's team.

"Lots of people in the grand-stand are batty. In fact, many players on life's diamond are loose in the top of their anatomy, yet they play ball. But Susan will be allowed a substitute. Don't delay the game," answered the man who calls the strikes and balls.

Henry Butler waddled to the plate. He struck a foul that hit Wille Allen. He was ordered to the bench with a fine of $2.50 for his carelessness.

David Taylor was given a complimentary pass to six bases, each base counting one month. David talked back to the umpire, and got six months' vacation for his suspicious bearing.

James A. Council, shortstop for the colonel's team, stole bases wonderfully for his nine, but when he broke into a house on the base line, the applause was so great that the Grand Dukee of the team above the park of Umpire Crutchfield will witness his play at a game in the future.
